HAPPILY WEDDED.

Mr. W. L. Walling of Whitney and Miss Lena Napier of Waco.

The Baptist church was well filled yesterday afternoon to witness the ceremony of Mr. L. Walling of Whitney and Miss Lena Napier of this city. Beautiful decorations were arranged, and in front of the altar was erected a beautiful arch of evergreens and roses, from the center of which was appended the initials W. & N. At 2:30 the bride and groom, preceded by the ushers, Messrs. Walter Napier, Chas. R. Turner, Hugh Brown and Hal Brown, entered the church and advanced to the altar, where they were united in marriage by Dr. Rufus C. Burleson, in an impressive and solemn style. The bride and groom left the city on the 3 o'clock express for a tour in the east. Mr. Walling is a rising young merchant of Whitney, and a thorough gentleman. The bride is a daughter of Mr. W. S. Napier, and has hundreds of friends and admirers in this city, where she has always lived. She is a graduate of Waco University, and is a brilliant and beautiful young lady.

Detroit Sensation

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 6.—The World's Detroit special says: In 1884 Maxwell M. Fisher, 50 years old, a millionaire of Detroit, and Frances A. Garrison, 55 years old, were married. They went on a wedding tour to California a month later. While in Santa Barbara he alleges that his wife yelled at him so long and so loud one night that half of the people in the Arlington hotel awoke and listened. They traveled around California for about two months, and at almost every hotel at which they stopped Mr. Fisher alleges his wife repeated the occurrence. On May 1 this curious honeymoon terminated and they settled down in this city. Then their difficulties began in earnest. Mr. Fisher charges that the wife circulated scandalous stories about him and an innocent woman living in the household, and even went so far as to give such stories circulation through a newspaper. One evening in November 1885, Mr. Fisher states his wife began "to talk to him" and continued until 3 o'clock the next morning without stopping. At that hour Mr. Fisher timidly ventured to talk back, when she sprang from bed, he says, and hit him in the face several times, knocking him out in the first round, as he confessed. On May 29 last he filed a bill for a divorce and alleged the foregoing acts of cruelty on her part. Mrs. Fisher did not file an answer and Judge Gardner this morning granted the divorce. Mrs. Fisher is worth $150,000 in her own right and both parties in the suit are well known in Detroit.

Boy Hurt with a Cartridge.

Abilene, Tex., Nov. 6.—Little Cliff Hoony while handling a cartridge in school yesterday had it exploded in his hands and burned the index finger of his right hand considerably.

Rev. Abe Mulkey is preaching nightly to very large audiences. The Methodist church could not hold his hearers and yesterday a large brick room was secured on north Second street, where he will hereafter deliver his sermons.

It has been discovered by the American distillers, who for several years have been trying the experiment of shipping whiskey abroad, and having it stored in foreign warehouses in order to avoid the immediate payment of the internal revenue tax of ninety cents a gallon, that Hamburg is the best port to place their goods. It has been shown upon examination of whiskeys recently sent back that it deteriorated much less in Hamburg warehouses than it did at other places. That stored in Liverpool suffered the most. Bermuda was also found to be a bad place for storage on account of the salt air. The island towns in the West Indies are being looked to as an available storage point, and certain New York distillers have sent whiskey to St. Thomas.

In cleaning out the lower levels of the caves at Dordogne, in France, there were found a great many oyster shells piled in such a manner as to show that the Neanderthal man used the bivalve as a common article of food. The oyster is thus demonstrated to be the oldest domesticated delicacy known to man. These relics are estimated to be over 60,000 years old.

ITALIAN ARTIFICIAL FLOWERS.

First invented by Pious Sisters—in a Famous Factory—Handwork.

Artificial flowers were first invented by pious nuns. In the Italian convents the altars and shrines of saints were, up to the end of the eighteenth century, decorated with artificial flowers, laboriously put together of paper parchment and other stiff materials. Since then the "Italian flowers," which are made in Venetian factories of the imperfect cocoons of silk worms, have become famous for their daintiness, which makes them particularly suitable for toilet decorations. Besides these silk flowers other artificial flowers are made in Venice, whence nearly all Italy is supplied, and whence whole wagon loads are exported to other countries.

I have been over one of the Venetian flower factories, for no sooner has the visitor to Venice taken his early cup of chocolate at Florian's, near the Marcus place, when the electrica appears, offering to show him the "famous" factory of the "famous Italian flowers." This factory is situated in one of the gray old houses of the Frezzaria, and several hundred girls are occupied in it. In the warehouse the most wonderful reproductions of natural flowers are exhibited in glass cases, and it seems in many cases as if not only the richest and most brilliant colors, but the very scent of the flowers, had been stolen from nature, for some of the artificial flowers are steeped in the perfume distilled from the flower which it represents. Any one wishing to take home some souvenir of Venice can have his choice of beautiful and often fantastic objects at the factory.

In the upper stories of the house the girls sit at their work, constructing, with clever hands, the most beautiful works of art, for all the most expensive artificial flowers are nearly exclusively made by hand, and their value depends solely on the manual dexterity and taste of the poorly clad and mostly delicate looking girls, sitting at long tables, and inhaling the unhealthy dust of the dyed materials. No machinery could replace the dexterity and taste. Last century a Swiss invented a machine for cutting out the leaves and petals, but it can only be used for the smaller kinds, such as are wanted for hyacinths, lilies of the valley, and other small flowers. In larger petals the irregularities of manual work are preferred to the stiff and correct forms produced by machinery. The material of which the petals are made is woven in special factories: the scissors and other tools used by the girls, as well as the presses in which the veins are traced on the leaves, are of a shape specially adapted to the work.

Each part of a flower is made by specialists. In one room, for instance, only stalks of flowers and leaves are made; in another fruits and berries of all kinds are cut, if they are of wax, or blown, if of glass. The cleverest workers are employed in making blossoms of the single petals, and bouquets, wreaths, and garlands of the single blossoms. It is very interesting to watch this process, and to see how, first, the center of a flower is constructed, then the petals put round, next the green leaves, and so forth, till a flower or a branch is complete.—The Gartenlaube.

Example for Holiday Seekers. When Maestro Verdi arrived at Montecatini to take the waters and with them a well earned holiday, he found that the chief piece of furniture in the suite of rooms prepared for him was a piano. Without saying a word, the composer took the music of his "Trovatore," which had been put on the music stand as a gentle ovation, locked the piano, and said to the son of the hotelkeeper, "Take me to the place where I can see the deepest abyss." The young man, somewhat abashed at the proposal, made in solemn tones, led Verdi to the top of the Marlenberg, whence the latter, who was so tired that he was hardly able to stand, hurled the key into the depths, saying, "The Virgin be praised! now I have accomplished an act which will greatly help me to enjoy and benefit by my stay. On the day of my departure from here I will see that the key is replaced." Holiday seekers, go and do likewise, leaving behind you the keys of whatever workshops ye come from.—Home Journal.

An Exception. An editor advising his contributors says: "Brevity always gets to the front." Not if it happens to be doing duty as a rabbit's tail.—Binghamton Republican.

New York Society Note. The engagement of Miss Nora Cogan to Mr. Rhinolauder De Lancey is announced. Miss Cogan is engaged as cook for $20 a month.—Sun.
